Late Day for Tuition Cancellation – Sept 15

Instructor Approval Required for Withdraw: Sept 16-Nov 14 (Nov 14 last day to withdraw from a course)

Degree Applications for Fall 2021 due: October 1

Instructional Method Reminder

Since the beginning of our response to the COVID-19 outbreak, we altered the instructional method options for many of our graduate courses. The university's course scheduling software is very good, but it is less than ideal in clarifying the difference in some of the methods.

This website provides clarification on the different methods:

<https://wayne.edu/registrar/students/instructional-method>

COVID Reminders for Coming to Campus

To come to campus each day, you will need to complete the university COVID mandate -

https://wayne.edu/coronavirus/vaccine-mandate?utm\_source=link&utm\_medium=email-6127ee83628d6&utm\_campaign=Thursday%2C+August+26%2C+2021+-+Today%40Wayne+-+Wayne+State+Universit&utm\_content=COVID-19+vaccine+mandate

And complete Daily Screener: <https://forms.wayne.edu/covid-19-screening/> Instructors are allowed to ask to see the email your daily screen sends. Faculty cannot ask you if you have vaccinated, however. For now, you will need to wear a face mask or covering. This will be reviewed by the university on September 15.

Free Covid testing is available at Campus Health Center:

Position Title: Journalism Teaching Assistant Professor

Position Type: Non tenure-track faculty

Position Location: Bethlehem, Pennsylvania 18015, United States [map]

Appl Deadline: 2021/09/30 11:59 pm

The Lehigh University Department of Journalism & Communication invites applications for a Teaching Assistant Professor in Journalism to begin August 2022. This non-tenure-track position has an initial appointment of three years and is renewable. We are seeking a former or current journalism professional, with at least five years of experience, who will teach beginning and advanced media writing, editing and an introductory course in data journalism, and who may have the opportunity to teach a course in visual communication, depending on individual interests and departmental needs. The professor will teach three classes per semester. A Ph.D. or Master's degree in Journalism, Mass Communication or related area is required by appointment start date. Salary and benefits are highly competitive.

The Department of Journalism & Communication has offered a small undergraduate program of superior quality since 1927. Alumni are in the top ranks of American journalism. It has nine full-time faculty. With major and minor programs in journalism, science and environmental writing, and mass communication, the department enrolls about 125 majors and minors. More information can be found at: <http://www.lehigh.edu/journalism>.

Lehigh University is a research university and ranks in the top 50 among national universities in U.S. News & World Report ratings. It is located on a scenic, 1,600-acre campus in historic Bethlehem a region of eastern Pennsylvania known as the Lehigh Valley, 90 minutes from New York and Philadelphia. The Lehigh Valley is an attractive place to live and work with reasonable cost of living, easy commuting, good schools, and abundant cultural activities.

Applicants should apply here at Academic Jobs Online.

The site has instructions for the easy upload of all materials by candidates and references. Required materials are cover letter, vita, statement on teaching, and three letters of reference. The cover letter should include a section on how the candidate would contribute to a diverse and inclusive environment in the College of Arts & Sciences. Review of applications will begin 9/30/2021 and continue until the position is filled. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Jack Lule, Co-Chair, Search Committee, Journalism & Communication: jack.lule@lehigh.edu

Assistant Professor of Communication Studies at University of San Diego

Diane Keeling, keeling@sandiego.edu

The Department of Communication Studies at the University of San Diego invites applicants for a tenure-track assistant professor position with a scholarly interest in communication and policy. Candidates approaching communication and policy from any methodological perspective are welcome to apply. Policy is broadly defined, and could include the development, implementation, or implications of laws, regulations, or policies stemming from localities, regions, nation-states, international governing bodies, or from within private sectors. The department is particularly interested in scholars investigating policy as it relates to environmental communication, new media technologies, or borders and social justice.

The Department of Communication Studies is committed to faculty members who strive for innovation in their pedagogical and research approaches to investigating communication. Our faculty members represent the breadth of the discipline. We seek candidates who respect diverse approaches to studying the process of communication, and who recognize the social and political implications of the communication process. Qualified candidates should have an appreciation for the teacher-scholar model, a student-centered approach, and a commitment to the liberal arts. Candidates should be capable of teaching within our departmental core curriculum, as well as upper-division courses within their area of expertise. Preference will be given to candidates capable of teaching upper-division communication criticism.

The successful candidate will join other new faculty members from varying disciplines across the College of Arts & Sciences who will have similar pedagogical or scholarly interests to collaboratively engage in faculty clusters focused on climate change and environmental justice, technology and the human experience, or borders and social justice. The faculty clusters are designed to attract a diverse set of scholars to the College of Arts & Sciences who will have the opportunity to participate in campus and community collaborations.

Candidates should hold an advanced degree, preferably a doctorate or other terminal degree. ABD candidates will be considered on a case-by-case basis. Qualified candidates should also have university-level teaching experience and a demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching. Candidates are also expected to have a strong research agenda, participate in university service, and advise undergraduate students. Qualified candidates who are dedicated to empowering students from underserved communities through teaching, research, creative and pedagogical scholarship, community engagement, service and/or mentoring are strongly encouraged to apply.

For full consideration, candidates should submit applications prior to October 15, 2021.

Applications must consist of the following

1. Letter of application
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Teaching statement and a sample syllabus
4. Research statement and a sample of scholarly work
5. Diversity statement, in which you address:
  - A. Your values with respect to diversity, equity, and inclusion
  - B. Your experience working with minoritized populations and/or on issues that disproportionately affect diverse populations
  - C. Your plans related to diversity and inclusion in your teaching and research
6. Contact information for three references who will be asked to submit letters of recommendation.

All applicants must upload documents to the following URL:

<https://jobs.sandiego.edu>

Posting #3794.

Any questions regarding the position should be directed to Dr. Diane Keeling, search chair, keeling@sandiego.edu. Any technical questions or difficulties uploading materials should be directed to the Employment Services Team at 619-260-6806 or jobs@sandiego.edu.

More about the College of Arts and Sciences and University of San Diego:

The College of Arts and Sciences is at the heart of the university of San Diego. Our philosophy is built on the enduring values of the Catholic intellectual tradition, immersing students in the concepts of free inquiry, diversity and inclusion, ethical conduct and compassionate service. The College aims to establish an academic foundation for students to thrive and gain a comprehensive education, which spans the sciences, arts and social sciences. Through our exemplary liberal arts education and rigorous scholarship, we aspire to not only educate the mind but also develop the whole person.

The University of San Diego, a contemporary and engaged Roman Catholic institution, was founded by the Diocese of San Diego and the Society of the Sacred Heart in 1949. Governed by an independent board of trustees since 1972, USD remains committed to a liberal arts education grounded in the Catholic intellectual tradition and the pursuit of truth, goodness and beauty. Inspired by this centuries old tradition of Catholic higher education, the University welcomes people of all faith traditions and any, or no, religious background. The future success of USD relies on the contributions of those who seek to foster the development of engaged global citizens and an earnest confrontation of humanity's urgent challenges.

The University of San Diego sits on the Indigenous homeland of the Kumeyaay people. The San Diego region is the third most populated area for American Indians in California and is surrounded by four autonomous Indigenous nations: the Kumeyaay, Luiseño, Cupeño, and Cahuilla. These four nations, represented by 19 tribes, make San Diego County home to the largest concentration of individual tribes in the United States. San Diego is also the second largest city in the state, near the busiest port of entry on an international border, and hosts significant ethnic, immigrant, and refugee communities from around the globe, including Central America, the Caribbean, Southeast Asia, the Pacific Islands, and Africa.

Serving more than 5,500 undergraduate students, the university holds a commitment to advancing academic excellence, global citizenship, ethical knowledge and conduct, and compassionate service.

The University of San Diego is an Equal Opportunity employer and does not discriminate based upon race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, pregnancy, age, physical disability, mental disability, medical condition, covered veteran status, genetic information, or other characteristic protected by federal or state law. USD offers same sex domestic partner benefits. Final candidates will complete a pre-employment background check.

This institution offers benefits to same-sex domestic partners and not to different-sex domestic partners.

This institution offers benefits to spouses.

Assistant Professor at Mississippi State University

Holli Seitz, hseitz@comm.msstate.edu

Assistant Professor

Position Function:

This is one full-time, 9-month, tenure-track faculty position requiring the successful candidate to teach, conduct research, and perform service. See below for more specifics

Salary Grade: UC

Please see Staff Compensation Structure or Skilled Crafts and Service Maintenance Compensation Schedule for salary ranges:

<https://www.hrm.msstate.edu/managers/staff-compensation-structure>

<https://www.hrm.msstate.edu/managers/compensation/skilled-crafts-service-maintenance-schedule>

For salary grade UC, these positions are "Unclassified" and salary ranges are determined by the hiring department

Department Profile:

The Department of Communication at Mississippi State University is one of the largest on campus. There are approximately 600 undergraduate majors across five concentrations:

- Broadcast & Digital Journalism
- Communication & Media Studies
- Print & Digital Journalism
- Public Relations
- Theatre

Students may choose concentrations in more than one area, and minors are offered in each concentration

www.comm.msstate.edu

The department is offering students a new Master of Arts in Communication program beginning in January 2022. Information on the graduate program is available at:

<https://www.comm.msstate.edu/graduate-program>

Students within the department can take part in many different career advancement programs, such as internships and other student clubs and organizations like Alpha Psi Omega, Lambda Pi Eta, Speech & Debate Council, Lab Rats Comedy & Improv, Public Relations & Integrated Student Media (PRISM) agency, Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSSA), Take 30 News, The Reflector, among others.

The department is committed to fostering an environment that values and affirms diversity, equity, and inclusion. The department is committed to removing barriers that have been traditionally encountered by individuals from underrepresented groups and makes every attempt to support faculty members' academic, professional, and personal success. The department values diversity in experience, background and research perspectives and is dedicated to creating an inclusive environment for teaching and learning.

Area of Specialization:

- Communication & Media Studies
- Broadcast/Print & Digital Journalism
- Public Relations

Anticipated Appointment Date: August 16, 2022

Tenure Track Status: Tenure Track

Essential Duties and Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will teach courses in the graduate program, the concentration of Communication & Media Studies, and/or other undergraduate concentrations, if appropriate. Courses may include upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses in communication theory (e.g., Elements of Persuasion, Rhetorical Theory, Advanced Communication Theory, Communication Theory) and/or methods (e.g., Communication & Media Research Methods, Seminar in Communication Research).

A typical course load for an assistant professor with an active research agenda is three undergraduate courses per semester. If teaching graduate courses, the workload is 3/2, reduced during the semester teaching at the graduate level. During the first two years of employment, an additional course equivalent reassignment per semester for tenure-track positions may be granted (for an overall 2-2 load), thus encouraging the individual to initiate or continue a strong research program.

Research is defined by the university, college, and department in a broad context. Excellence in research or creative achievement must be established by critical peer evaluation, using standards prevailing in the discipline. More information on promotion and tenure is available in the faculty handbook which can be found at:

Service includes advising majors and student organizations, developing curriculum, and serving on committees. Service activities within the community and professional disciplines also are recognized as aspects of faculty achievement.

Minimum Qualifications:

For tenure-track positions, the appropriate terminal degree and a strong record of or potential for successful teaching and scholarly research are required. Highly qualified ABDs will be considered, but a communication-related terminal degree must be completed within one year of the appointment date.

ABDs or degree pending considered (all but DISS): Yes

Preferred Qualifications:

The ideal candidate will have a PhD in a communication field, a strong record of scholarly research, and collegiate teaching experience. Candidates able to teach courses pertaining to communication theory, research methods (quantitative, qualitative, or critical approaches), and/or communication in a particular context (e.g., political, international) are preferred.

Candidates who have experience in - or the potential for - building an enriched, equitable, and diverse scholarly environment are strongly encouraged to apply. A demonstrated commitment to work with students of all backgrounds and with students holding a range of worldviews is valued.

Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities:

The successful candidate must have a thorough knowledge of the field and a willingness to participate collegially in a broad department. Colleagues must be able to communicate that knowledge to students as well as to other important groups through scholarship and service. See above for overall duties and responsibilities.

Working Conditions and Physical Effort:

The successful candidate must be able to teach in a classroom setting, conduct research, and provide service in the profession.

Instructions for Applying:

Link to apply:

Assistant Teaching Faculty in Non-Profit and Science Communication at Drexel University
Hilde Van den Bulck, skw@drexel.edu

About Drexel

Drexel is a comprehensive global R1 research university. With over 24,000 students, Drexel is one of America's 15 largest private universities. Drexel is one of Philadelphia's top 10 private employers, and a major engine for economic development in the region. Drexel has committed to being the nation's most civically engaged university, with community partnerships integrated into every aspect of service and academics.

Job Summary

The Department of Communication invites applications for a full-time Assistant Teaching Professor in non-profit communication. Expertise in non-profit communication is required. Those with additional teaching specialties in the fields of race, ethnicity and class in relationship to non-profit communication, or in science and health communication; or in media and communication ethics are especially encouraged to apply. Teaching duties include teaching Nonprofit Communication (UG & GR), Ethics, Communication and Media (GR), Communication for Civic Engagement (UG & GR) and, depending on expertise, Communicating Health & Risk, Environmental Communication, Media and Activism, next to any more general courses such as Techniques of Speaking and Science Writing (UG). Successful candidates will also be expected to maintain the Department's efforts to community outreach, including Drexel Edits and Good Morning Neighbors.

The Department of Communication within the College of Arts and Sciences (CoAS) has an Undergraduate program in Communication, a Professional Master program in Strategic Digital Communication and a Master and PhD program in Communication, Culture and Media. Students learn through hands-on experiences gained in and outside of the classroom. With faculty members who are equally passionate about teaching - both face-to-face and online/remote - and about cutting-edge research, the department is a leader in communication education, guiding the design of new curricular approaches to enhance student learning. The curriculum offers focus and flexibility, allowing students to define their path to success.

The Department develops research in the areas of Public Relations, Journalism, Civil Society and the Political (including Non-Profit Communication), Popular Communication and Consumer Culture, and Information and Communication Technology.

The College of Arts and Sciences (CoAS) delivers a time-honored liberal arts education paired with Drexel's renowned focus on applied learning. Our research and scholarship explore contemporary issues with an eye toward improving the common good. With a breadth of disciplines in the natural sciences, social sciences and humanities, and a focus on the now, the College is the perfect home for curious scholars who seek to apply their learning in the service of humanity.

This position is ideal for a working professional wishing to transition into college teaching while maintaining professional output or a former/current professional who has obtained a Master's or PhD interested in research or professional creative activities. Our School's social justice mission leads us to invest in recruiting colleagues who in their scholarship, professional activity, teaching, and service demonstrate experience, knowledge of, and sensitivity to the needs of marginalized communities and students holding a range of worldviews.

The expectations of tenure-track faculty are 40% teaching (2 courses per semester), 40% research or professional creative activity, and 20% university and professional service. The expectations of clinical faculty are 60% teaching (3 courses per semester), 30% professional creative activity, and 10% university and professional service. The appointment will begin August 17, 2022.

Education Requirement:

- Tenure-track: Doctoral degree in Mass Communication or related discipline in hand by August 17, 2022.
- Clinical-track: Master's or doctoral degree in mass communication or related discipline.

Required Qualification:

- Demonstrated professional experience in multimedia storytelling.

Desired Qualifications:

- Experience telling stories about marginalized communities; University-level teaching experience.

Applications should be submitted online at:

<http://jobs.uiowa.edu/>

Requisition #74238

Attachments to the application should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy, diversity statement, and contact information for three references. Applicants should submit examples of their relevant work in multimedia practice. Questions should be directed to Associate Professor Brian Ekdale, Search Chair, brian-ekdale@uiowa.edu.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2021, and will be ongoing until the position is filled.

Located in Iowa City (population 70,000), The University of Iowa is the state's flagship educational institution with more than 31,000 students and 1,700 faculty. The University of Iowa's School of Journalism and Mass Communication, with roughly 400 undergraduate majors and 100 masters and doctoral students, is housed in the Philip D. Assistant Professor - Critical Rhetoric at California State University East Bay

Grant Kien, grant.kien@csueastbay.edu

THE UNIVERSITY:

California State University, East Bay (CSUEB) is a comprehensive university serving the San Francisco Bay Area/Silicon Valley. It is known for award-winning programs, expert instruction, its diverse student body, and a choice of more than 100 career-focused fields of study. With an enrollment of approximately 15,000 students and 900 faculty, CSUEB is organized into four colleges. The University offers bachelor's degrees in 49 fields, minors in 52 fields, master's degrees in 34 fields, 16 credentials programs, 18 certificate options, and 1 doctoral degree program.

<https://www.csueastbay.edu/>

California State University East Bay has a mission to support a diverse student body through academically rich and culturally relevant learning experiences. The successful candidate will bring with them expertise or an openness to creating a welcoming and supportive environment for all students.

THE DEPARTMENT:

The Department of Communication has a long, rich history of serving students in the San Francisco Bay Area. Our programs instill practical skills, communication theory, and critical analysis, taught by a diverse faculty of leaders in their areas of expertise. We offer the first state-university program in the San Francisco Bay Area to adopt an interrelated approach to the convergence of media, modes, and contexts, in new and traditional forms. Undergraduate students may choose one of 3 concentrations:

- Communication and Media Studies
- Strategic Communication
- Multimedia Journalism

Our M.A. students also have 3 completion options to choose from, allowing them to steer their progress towards their desired outcome. We host several student-run and/or student-serving entities:

- The Pioneer News Online
- Pioneer Web TV
- East Bay Live podcast
- The COMM Lab

First-generation ‘under-served minority’ students make up the majority of our department’s vibrant, active community, with half considered ‘low income.’

DUTIES OF THE POSITION:

The successful candidate will be required to teach and develop courses at all levels in their area of expertise, conduct research in the areas of rhetorical studies and critical rhetoric, and will supervise, manage and grow our General Education oral and interpersonal communication courses.

Please note that teaching assignments at California State University, East Bay include courses at the Hayward, Concord, and Online campuses. In addition to teaching, all faculty have advising responsibilities, assist the department with administrative and/or committee work, and are expected to assume campus-wide committee responsibilities.

RANK AND SALARY:

Assistant Professor. Salary is dependent upon educational preparation and experience. Subject to budgetary authorization.

DATE OF APPOINTMENT: Fall Semester, 2022.

QUALIFICATIONS:

Candidate requires an earned PhD in Communication, Speech Communication, or closely related field, specializing in Critical Rhetoric, preferably emphasizing any or all subjects of Intersectionality, Latinx, and/or African American/Black Studies. ABD candidates may be considered, although degree must be in hand at the start of the appointment.

Candidates must demonstrate a record of scholarly activity, an interest and ability to successfully work with diverse, underserved, under-resourced student populations, including 1st-generation, non-traditional, LGBTQ students, students of color, and DREAMers. Applications must include a diversity statement, provide evidence of teaching effectiveness, and demonstrate a research record.

Candidates should demonstrate:

- Experience in teaching, mentoring, research, or community service that has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence
- An active, ongoing research program and promising works in progress
- Strong likelihood of top-tier peer-reviewed publication and dissemination
- A focus on current issues
- Preparedness for effective teaching of rhetorical studies and/or critical rhetoric, oral, and interpersonal communication
- Ability to articulate the importance of a critical approach
- An ability to immediately contribute to our curriculum

We desire candidates who wish to mentor and contribute to student life initiatives on campus, work with faculty across the campus, and be involved in their disciplinary field beyond the campus (associations, working groups etc.). Also desirable are an ability to teach across our curriculum, and a commitment to community service.

This University is fully committed to the rights of students, staff and faculty with disabilities in accordance with applicable state and federal laws.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: Oct. 15, 2021. Position will be considered open until filled.

<https://careers.pageuppeople.com/873/eb/en-us/job/503731/assistant-professor-of-communication-critical-rhetoric>

Applicants are required to submit:

- Cover letter
- Curriculum Vitae (CV)
- Email information for 3 confidential letters of recommendation
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness
- 1-to-2-page teaching statement
- 1-to-2-page research statement
- 2 examples of scholarly writing
- 1-to-2-page diversity statement addressing how you engage a diverse student population in your teaching, research, mentoring, and advising

Note: California State University, East Bay hires only individuals lawfully authorized to work in the United States. All offers of employment are contingent upon presentation of documents demonstrating the appointee's identity and eligibility to work in accordance with provisions of the Immigration Reform and Control Act. A background check (including a criminal records check and prior employment verification) must be completed and cleared prior to the start of employment.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY STATEMENT:

As an Equal Opportunity Employer, CSUEB does not discriminate on the basis of any protected categories: age, ancestry, citizenship, color, disability, gender, immigration status, marital status, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran's status. The University is committed to the principles of diversity in employment and to creating a stimulating learning environment for its diverse student body

Associate or Full Professor in Cancer Communication at University of Utah

Kimberly A. Kaphingst, kim.kaphingst@hci.utah.edu

The Department of Communication and Huntsman Cancer Institute (HCI) at the University of Utah invite applications for a tenure-line Associate or Full Professor working in health communication, with a focus on cancer communication. Specialization may include genetic communication, mHealth, social media, social networks, cancer caregiving, cancer survivorship, patient-provider communication, or family communication. Scholars who examine disparities, including those that fall along race, sexuality, income, class, geography, and/or gender are highly encouraged to apply. This position is primarily centered in the Department of Communication's Communicating Science, Health, Environment and Risk area of emphasis. Scholarship that complements one or more of the Department's other areas of emphasis is desirable but not a requirement.

The successful candidate will also conduct research within the Cancer Control and Population Sciences (CCPS) Program at Huntsman Cancer Institute. The CCPS Program is a comprehensive basic and applied research program that spans the cancer control continuum from etiology, primary prevention, screening, and early detection to continuing care, survivorship, and end-of-life care. We are looking for collaborative and engaged colleagues who are interested in advancing communication scholarship through interdisciplinary team science.

The strongest candidates will demonstrate the ability to teach existing undergraduate and graduate courses in the Department of Communication, as well as design and teach courses within the successful faculty member's area of expertise. The successful candidate will also advise master's and doctoral students in the Department's highly ranked graduate program in Communication.

Qualified applicants will have a Ph.D. in Communication or in a closely related discipline or interdisciplinary program; an active research program leading to publication; potential for success in grant acquisition; a record of or demonstrated potential for teaching excellence; and a willingness to conduct service in the Department, University, and in the field of communication.

Candidates should submit a curriculum vitae; cover letter containing a description of professional experience (including scholarly and teaching activities, research accomplishments, leadership responsibilities and 3 references); a 1-page research plan or statement; and a statement of past, present, and future commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion (up to 1 page).

Huntsman Cancer Institute (HCI) is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to hiring individuals whose merit and experience promote a diverse, inclusive, anti-racist workforce and culture. Learn more about HCI's commitments at:

Tenure Track Assistant Professor, Communication Studies at California State University, San Bernardino

Shafiq Rahman, shafiqur.rahman@csusb.edu

California State University, San Bernardino (CSUSB) is located in San Bernardino in the Inland Empire, 60 miles east of Los Angeles and operates a satellite campus in Palm Desert located in Coachella Valley. CSUSB serves approximately 20,000 students, of which 81% are first-generation college students and graduates about 5,000 students annually.

As a designated Hispanic Serving Institution, CSUSB reflects the dynamic diversity of the region and has one of the most diverse student populations of any university in the Inland Empire, and the second highest Hispanic enrollment of all public universities in California. CSUSB employs 467 full-time faculty and offers 48 undergraduate, 35 graduate, and one doctoral degree programs and 14 academic programs with national accreditation.

At CSUSB, diversity, equity and inclusion are values central to our mission. We recognize that diversity and inclusion in all its forms are necessary for our institutional success. By fully leveraging our diverse experiences, backgrounds and insights, we inspire innovation, challenge the status quo and create better outcomes for our students and community. As part of CSUSB's commitment to hire, develop and retain a diverse faculty, we offer a variety of networking, mentoring and development programs for our junior faculty. We are committed to building and sustaining a CSUSB community that is supportive and inclusive of all individuals.

Qualified applicants with experience in ethnically diverse settings and/or who demonstrate a commitment to serving diverse student populations are strongly encouraged to apply. CSUSB has received the Carnegie Community Engagement Classification, which recognizes CSUSB's ongoing commitment to service-learning, a high-impact practice that combines classroom instruction with meaningful volunteer service and correlates strongly to student success.

TYPICAL ACTIVITIES

Duties include teaching undergraduate and graduate courses in the department's core communication curriculum (communication theory, communication research methods, and communication ethics), and in one or more of the concentration areas. Additional responsibilities include:

- Advising and mentoring students
- Engaging in professional and scholarly activities
- Serving on thesis committees
- Providing service to the department, campus, and community

Qualified candidates must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching and mentoring a diverse student population and to working effectively with faculty, staff and students across a wide range of disciplines.

JOB SUMMARY

The Department of Communication Studies seeks an enthusiastic, dynamic, and accomplished teacher/scholar to fill a tenure-track assistant professor position. The successful candidate will teach the department's core courses and specialize in one or more of the department's concentration areas:

- Media studies
- Relational and organizational communication
- Strategic communication

Our department mission emphasizes fostering communication and media literacies in the service of global citizenship, community participation and ethical leadership. We also strive to help students gain the knowledge and skills necessary to develop more satisfying personal and professional relationships, and prepare students for successful and ethically informed careers. We are committed to sustaining a culturally diverse environment for our faculty and students.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- Ph.D. in communication, with degree in hand by time of appointment.

Qualifications for the position include:

- Record of excellent teaching at the college or university level.
- Ability to teach the department's core courses.
- Experience successfully teaching, mentoring, and/or serving diverse student populations, including first generation and non-traditional students who come from diverse academic, socioeconomic, cultural, disability, gender, gender identity, sexual orientation, and ethnic backgrounds
- Record of research or creative works in or related to one or more of the department's concentration areas.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- Record of scholarship which focuses on underrepresented groups, diversity, equity, and/or social justice.
- Research that focuses particularly on Latinxs in the U.S., African Americans, and/or Native Americans.
- Established record of teaching courses related to the department's undergraduate core curriculum.
- Experience teaching graduate theory and methods courses.
- Clearly defined research agenda.

SPECIAL CONDITIONS

The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Following a conditional offer of employment, a background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate may start work with CSUSB. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may result in the withdrawal of the offer of employment. Note: CSUSB cannot deny an applicant a position solely or in part due to a criminal conviction history until it has performed an individualized assessment and linked the relevant conviction history with specific job duties in the position being sought.

Please note: Current employees who are offered positions on campus will be required to undergo a background check for any position where a background check is required by law or that CSUSB has designated as sensitive. Sensitive positions are those requiring heightened scrutiny of individuals holding the position based on potential for harm to children, concerns for the safety and security of people, animals, or property, or heightened risk of financial loss to CSUSB or individuals in the university community.

For health and well-being, CSUSB is a smoke & tobacco-free campus. The university is committed to promoting a healthy environment for all members of our community.

ABOUT THE DEPARTMENT

The Department of Communication Studies offers a B.A. in Communication Studies with concentrations in Media Studies, Relational and Organizational Communication, and Strategic Communication; and an M.A. in Communication Studies. Students have many opportunities to explore all aspects of the field through our wide range of concentrations, minors, internship opportunities, events, departmental clubs, and advising. Dynamic and growing, we have one of the largest numbers of undergraduate majors of any department in the College of Arts and Letters.

For more information regarding the position, please contact the Department Chair, Dr. Shafiq Rahman (Shafiqur.Rahman@csusb.edu).
